SOURCE Well-informed German rightist politician (C) Appraisal of Content: 2.

1. On 18 April 1957, Dr. Per Engdahl of Malmö, Sweden, leader of the European Social Movement, spoke with Swedish Prime Minister Tage Erlander. He discussed with Erlander his plan for a new wage system and Erlander agreed to forward his proposal on to the Swedish Finance Minister. On 26 April, the Finance Minister contacted Engdahl and invited him to a meeting on 30 April to discuss the proposal. Prior to the 30 April meeting, Erlander is to convince the Finance Minister that Engdahl is not a Fascist.
2. On 15 April, Engdahl also spoke with the head of the Swedish radio network. He may eventually receive permission to deliver an occasional talk over the radio, but the network chief informed him that before this could happen, a number of major obstacles must be overcome. Another meeting between the two was scheduled to take place on 8 May.
3. In the middle of May, Engdahl plans to travel to France, Spain, Italy and Austria. In Italy, Engdahl will meet with (Dr.) Ernesto Massi of Milan and Michelini, Secretary General of the Italian Social Movement and the three will discuss the possibility of establishing in Italy a section of the European Social Movement. In this same connection, Engdahl will also meet with Santagati, head of the Sicilian regional government and (Princess) Maria Pignatelli, head of the Italian Women's Movement. If Engdahl cannot reach an agreement with the Italian Social Movement leaders, he will, in the future, attempt to gain his objectives by working through Pignatelli and Massi, head of the left wing of the Italian Social Movement.
4. Engdahl will meet with former General Arpad von Bussy, head of the Hungarian movement, in Innsbruck and with Wilhelm Landig and (Dr.) Rissel in Vienna. He will return to Malmö before the end of May. Landig claims that Engdahl will be able to finance his travels from the proceeds of the sale of a series of articles to the newspaper Nordwesten Schwan Tiedinger.
